Job title / Grade: Consultant Physician in Endocrinology & Diabetes Mellitus

Reports to: Reports and is accountable to the relevant Clinical Director and Departmental Clinical Lead.

Department Information:

Endocrinology, diabetes mellitus and general internal medicine services are provided at SVUH by 5 individuals totalling a 2.3 wholetime equivalent in the department. Diabetes-specific services are aligned with the national diabetes programme. Less than 1 WTE is dedicated to endocrinology-specific services and this locum post is to address this shortfall.

The service contributes to the general medical on call rota which is approximately 1 in 32 individual commitment, and share the general medicine inpatient service assigned to endocrinology (1 of 8 teams accepting general medical patients from Monday - Friday medical handover post-take). Daily numbers received by endocrinology are 4-5 patients, specialty-specific 36% thereof. Inpatient numbers range from 25-35 patients, with surge to 50 in winter months.

Endocrinology Clinic services include Pituitary/gonadal (1 double clinic/month), thyroid (2 double clinics /month), general endocrine and GP-referral osteoporosis cases (1-2 clinics/month). These clinics have associated virtual phone clinics and letter advice service for GPs / internal consultant / external referrals. It is proposed that the locum post would support a new rapid access endocrinology clinic for patients from ED, GP, external or surgical referrals that are currently waiting more than a year in the regular clinics waiting lists. The NET clinic / service is also supported by endocrinology (Donal O'Shea), about 150 new NET patients are also seen per year and patients presenting to ED are admitted under either endocrinology or oncology. The NET service is an ENETs Centre of Excellence and ERN lead site for NET for Ireland. The endocrinology service also runs the Rare Bone clinic 1/month which is an Orphanet registered clinic and European Reference Network Centre lead adult site for Ireland for patients with ultrarare bone conditions.

Endocrinology NCHDs provide a range of functional testing for patients from the endocrine clinic or other SVUH service referrals including assessment of cortisol reserve, pituitary function, assessment of hyperandrogenism, AVP deficiency, non-diabetic hyperinsulinism / hypoglycaemia; and operative preparation including alpha blockade and glucocorticoid management. DXA scan justification & reporting for SVUH / St Luke's Rathgar / RVEEH is provided by the endocrine service.

SVUH is a centre for liver & pancreas transplant (also tertiary referral centre for liver disease in general); pancreatic cancer; cystic fibrosis; rare lung; ovarian cancer surgery (ESGO accredited centre); SVUH is one of 8 designated cancer centres under the National Cancer Control Programme (NCCP). It is proposed that the locum post would support day centre review of oncology patients with endocrine complications and develop a late effects service in partnership with oncology. The inpatient endocrinology consult service and dynamic testing service support all of these SVUH specialty services. 8.3% of the total Irish population is in the SVUH catchment, increasing faster than the national rate (5.1% population growth between last 2 censuses in this area, national rate 3.8%). 22.5% CHO6 aged > 85 (national rate 15.6%). 12.8% defined as some disability. 10.8% disadvantaged.
